“A good head and a good heart are always a formidable combination.” Nelson Mandela

Mr. Mandela’s words describe the foundation of Operation Outreach. I am continually grateful for the donations of our generous benefactors at home and the awesome work by those here in Kabul. Your efforts have significantly improved school and living conditions for thousands of people in Afghanistan, especially children.

We continue our push to make this a multi-national effort. We now have Coalition forces joining our efforts to consolidate and repackage donations for distribution. We also have interest on creating Outreach chapters at other Kabul bases as well.

The US and Coalition Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen and Marines of the Kabul Base Cluster are truly inspiring. By volunteering their time they continue the Operation Outreach tradition of selfless service while conducting their difficult military duties.

The efforts of our benefactors at home and those here in Kabul are truly a “formidable combination.”

Thank all of you for being a part of it.

George Harrington
Chairman / President
Operation Outreach

PS: As winter approaches, please keep in mind that the Kabul area can get very cold. Donations such as blankets, winter jackets and children's clothes are needed as we turn towards the last quarter of the year. In addition, we always run short of children's safety scissors for our school packs. Thanks Again!

KABUL , Afghanistan — For many children in the United States, September means one thing, back to school.

In Kabul, the end of August signified the end of Ramadan meaning many children here also returned to school, but this September they would return with much needed supplies thanks to donations from Operation Outreach Afghanistan.

As part of Operation Outreach Afghanistan, servicemembers collect, sort and bag items donated from family members, friends and strangers in the United States. The items are then handed out to local Afghan children during humanitarian aid drops and school visits.

U.S. Military members stationed on Camp Phoenix brought donated school supplies and candy to children at various schools in the Kabul Province, on August 15 and 24, 2011.

Operations such as this give servicemembers a chance to interact and directly impact the citizens of Afghanistan.

As fall ends and winter sets in drops like this are essential. Not only to guarantee that children receive the supplies they need for school, but also to ensure they receive necessary items cold weather items like socks and jackets.
